J-2 Dependent Employment Authorization Document (EAD) Application Procedures

The procedures outlined below are provided for guidance, but do not take the place of the U.S. Citizenship & Immigration Services (USCIS) instructions. The Form I-765, Application for Employment Authorization, is a personal application that is signed by you and, as such, is your responsibility. Employment authorization is required for employment at NIH whether any income is received. J-2 dependents that wish to volunteer at NIH are required to obtain an EAD from USCIS prior to beginning the volunteer assignment.

ELIGIBILITY AND GENERAL INFORMATION

- You must hold valid J-2 status as the spouse or child of an individual with valid J-1 Exchange Visitor status, as indicated on your most recent Form I-94.
- Any income gained by your J-2 work authorization may not be used to support your J-1 spouse or parent.
- You may only begin work after you receive your EAD from USCIS. The EAD is an identification card and work permit with your photograph, signature, and validity dates of your permission to work.
- You may work part-time or full-time, at any job, for any employer with a valid EAD. There is no limit on the amount of income you may earn, the number of hours you may work, or the level of your position.

WORK AUTHORIZATION DATES

- USCIS determines the J-2 work authorization dates. USCIS will usually issue the J-2 EAD with validity through the expiration date of the J-1 Exchange Visitor's status, as indicated on Form DS-2019.
- If your J-2 status expires, so will your EAD, even if USCIS does not issue a separate notice revoking the EAD. A DIS Immigration Specialist can explain how to extend permission to stay for J-1 and J-2 Exchange Visitors. We recommend that you file for extension of your EAD at least four months in advance of the current EAD expiration date. You may begin or continue working provided your current EAD has not expired. Once your current EAD expires, you must wait to receive the renewed EAD in order to continue working.

TAXES

The income of J-2 dependents is subject to applicable federal, state, and local taxes. Employers are required by law to withhold those taxes from your paycheck.

SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER

J-2 dependents with a valid EAD are authorized to work in the U.S. and obtain a Social Security Number (SSN). The Form I-765 has an option to file a request for a SSN, which enables applicants to apply for both an SSN and EAD at the same time.

GENERAL FILING SUGGESTIONS

- Make a copy of the entire application and supporting documents for your records.
- Please verify the filing location address for the Form I-765. Be sure to use Certified Mail, Federal Express, UPS, or other courier to ensure delivery.
- Letter requesting employment authorization - as a part of your EAD application, USCIS requires a letter written by you, the J-2 dependent. The letter must specifically state that your income will not be used to financially support the J-1 Exchange Visitor and that the J-1 already has sufficient resources for his/her own expenses. Your letter should indicate the source and amount of the J-1's current funding. You should provide a reason for wanting to work, such as some worthwhile interest or activity that might include family travel, or a description of recreational or cultural activities you will fund with your income.
